

MEET ELOHIM. How many of you would like to see "God" and perhaps even talk to Him? Don't be afraid; anyone can see Elohim. Let me explain how you can see "Him" without your naked eyes. How do submarines see underwater? Through a wonderful invention called sonar, which, by the way, dolphins and whales share in common. What is sonar? It is merely sound. What is sound? Sound is feeling – an energy wave that we can feel. Thus, dolphins and whales feel sonar or sound. Through sound waves, a submarine can literally "see" underwater. A sub has a special computer that converts the sound from the sonar into a 3-D image. Through this wonderful device, the man driving the wheel can literally see what is ahead and around as if the submarine had a set of eyes. Amazing, isn't it? I think you can already see where I am heading with this, right? You can see Elohim through feeling, let alone meet "Him." You may want to reflect on this point for a while and let the Angel in you unfold the enormous possibilities of this truth to the Adamic you, including seeing the other world. The Adamic you is your mind and body. I will tell you this: as you enter the dimension of spirit through more and more training in the realm of feeling, the sonar in you will eventually see a 3-D image of Elohim. I promise you it will be a picture your mind can comprehend. Some of you have already had this experience. Many men in Judaism and Christianity saw "Him" (Enoch, Abraham, Isaiah, Ezekiel, Jesus, Paul) and were not vaporized, and they did it through this experience. Do you know that Elohim has wanted you to understand this mystery ever since you heard about Him, but religion prevented you? Elohim yearns for us to see "Him" and meet "Him." I am always moved by the story of the prodigal son in the Bible, which I have always interpreted as an evangelical plot- a story about repentance. I feel that the story's deeper meaning is for us to see the Father and "His" Kingdom again literally. Sadly, we have been precluded from this meaning by our own misconceptions and religious teachings. The sooner we understand that there are no favorites, specials, or holy people in the family, the sooner we will realize how real this thing is and how connected we are through the Angelic you. The Angelic you is your spirit and soul – the real you. The plain truth is we were never disconnected at any point. We disconnected ourselves! I admit we all like our religions, and we all want to see our faith's final conclusion appear soon, but deep inside all of us, we yearn for meaning and truth in life now, which cannot be satisfied with hope or religion. The sad thing is, I just did not know how incredibly simple it is to meet "Him." I feel ashamed, actually. I used to think the essence of religion was about "God," so I searched in this area for years, and I am sorry to tell you that I could not find "Him" there. I just about looked everywhere you can imagine: Judaism, Christianity, Islam, Buddhism, Hinduism, and many other sects. I admit I learned a lot from my religious quest. In fact, I found some interesting facts/truths that helped me a little but by no means appeased my appetite (a deep longing) to meet "Him." The problem was religion taught me to look for an "image" of the sort (not always tangible), and I missed "Him" completely. Elohim exists as streams or waves of feeling that are unbelievably powerful, but "He" is not the wave. You connect to these streams through feeling and not sight. Perhaps you are beginning to see why it is so vital we learn how to feel because it is through feeling we get to discover the unseen Maker and Power of the Universe. For years, I had coveted the ultimate experience of meeting my Maker, and one day, "He" removed my "crutches" by pulling the mat (my religion) away from under my feet. Religion to me now is like a suit and tie I decide to wear for the day, and I admit it is fun, i.e., pleasant to fellowship. It is a "look" that the Adamic me needs to connect to the Supreme Being. You see, "Adam" likes to find his fulfillment in working. This "me" wants to do something to experience God - it wants a religion. It feels naked without this expensive and elaborate suit. The "Angel" is quite the opposite; this being is already connected to the Supreme Being and does not need the expensive and elaborate suit. Why? "Angel" does not need a crutch; he knows Elohim already. In fact, he met "Him" before he came here. So, teaching this "guy" how to meet "God" is no point. The Angel just needs to feel, and they are instantly connected! Practice it soon and meet "Him."
